England."

Published Daily, Nine-Weeks and Weekly.
Payment necessarily in advance.

In announcing the terms for this year's Nat-for 1893, the publisher writes it necessarily to describe its popular characteristics as a popular medium for topics of general interest to the future. He deems it sufficient to say that what

THE BOSTON JOURNAL

has been in the past and is in the future. It has almost and more than in the future. It carries throughout New England, a large head of the New-England Press in all the States, and for topics of general interest to the future, it carries a steady stream of articles in all respects, daily, weekly, and monthly, of the highest quality, and of the most reliable reports of all matters of interest to the public mind. It is the only one of its kind in the country.

...and, not only, for the representation of the ...members of "drummers" to gain for it the con...fidence and patronage of the Public—and the re...sult has been that it has now a circulation of ...three times, as large as that of any paper of its ...class in New England—and it is, constantly and
...steadily increasing. The proprietors, in conse...quence, employ more, of experienced and efficient
